

National Weights and Measures Week March 1-7, 2018

The National Conference on Weights and Measures (NCWM) announces Weights and Measures Week 2018. This year's theme is "Back to Basics as we Arrive in the Cloud", as the members, including Erie County's own inspector, Jeff Fantozzi, are quite familiar with tradition and technology.

This is the week we celebrate the practices and the professionals of Weights and Measures who take care of the familiar measuring devices like grocery scales and gas pumps, and adopt new technical standards utilized in the areas such as alternative fueling systems and scanners. More effective equipment is steadily being introduced into the industry. Regardless of what comes next, you can count on us to evolve and meet those requirements.

Please take the time to see that you are getting what you pay for- that gallon of gas, the weight of that item at the deli, or that correct price that scans at the cash register. That is a small list of what Jeff Fantozzi at the Erie County Auditor's office monitors for our taxpayers.
